

➤ Achieving Better Public Services - The Work of the Audit CommissionConclusion

The Audit Commission has a vital role in helping to improve public services by auditing financial information, efficiency and value. To do this well, it needs good-quality staff, not just in the area of accounting, but also in a host of other different roles. Competencies and training are all geared to ensuring that its activities and advice are of the highest quality. This is so everyone in society can benefit from its activities.