

Tarmac's functions - working together towards its mission statement

Conclusion

Organisations like Tarmac are no longer mere factories or large scale projects. They are organisations that have serious objectives tied to a commitment to achieving them. Tarmac is also dedicated to operating as ethically as possible.

Working in a multinational and multi-functional environment like Tarmac is varied. There are many departments that work together, e.g. an accountant working with an engineer, who in turn works with a production controller.
